

QUICK RESPONSE MADE TO APPEAL

Many Labor Men Ready to Become Sureties for Leavenworth Prisoners.

ATTORNEYS ARE CONFIDENT

Expect to Have Them All at Liberty by Latter Part of This Week.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Chicago, January 4.—Officials of the Structural Iron Workers' Union and attorneys for the convicted chiefs of that organization adjourned their conference to-night, satisfied of their ability to raise the bonds necessary for the release from Leavenworth of the thirty-two imprisoned men, pending their appeal before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here.

Their appeal to labor throughout the country met a quick response, they said, and they already had pledges of surety for the defendants from Chicago, Milwaukee, San Francisco and St. Louis. This provides for eight of the men, including President Frank M. Ryan.

Leo M. Rappaport returned to Indianapolis to-night, after spending the day with Attorney P. O'Donnell and E. N. Zollie in planning for the appeal to be made in April. He said the defendants' case would be ready long before the time set.

J. E. McClary, acting president of the Structural Iron Workers, will remain in the city to co-operate with Zollie in the work of raising bonds.

"I am confident," McClary said, "that we will be able to have all the men out of prison by the end of next week. All the men will be taken care of by the local unions to which they belong."

"While the acceptance of the sureties we offer is entirely in the discretion of Judge Anderson, I am sure he will not question them. I am trying to get employers in sympathy with the cause of labor to stand back of the bonds, so that there will be no doubt that they are good. There is not the slightest chance of any of the men leaving the country. They have no reason to."

Counsel for the convicted men here were encouraged by the report from Indianapolis that United States District Attorney Miller would not insist that the bondsmen be residents of the Indiana district.

SKIN TROUBLE ON FEET AND LIMBS

Also Hands. Began as Little Red Blisters, Caused Sores, Burning and Itching. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

322 Walker St., Greenville, Miss.—"My disease first began as a humor in my blood, as little red blisters would come and irritation would cause sores. It was on my feet and limbs, also hands. It gave me pain to put my hands in water. I had to wear perfectly white hose on my limbs. At times it caused burning and itching. The blisters would form as a fire blister, a large white puffy place filled with water afterwards, burning and forming red irritating sores. I suffered intense misery and had it for three or four years. I sent for a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and I was completely cured in less than two months. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me." (Signed) Mrs. J. H. Fowler, Apr. 25, 1912.

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and closing of the pores. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 25-c. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

67 Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

DEVELOPMENT IN NORTH CAROLINA

Industrial Brieflets From All Parts of the State—Good Business Everywhere.

The southwest counties of North Carolina, like those of Southwest Virginia, are becoming strong on cattle raising. The Marshall News-Record estimates that already this season a quarter of a million dollars' worth of beef cattle have been shipped from that region, and the shipping season is not yet more than half over. The News-Record says, further: "Haywood County furnishes the greatest number of the stock for the Northern and Eastern markets from this section, and there will be approximately 200 carloads shipped from that county alone. These estimates are founded upon actual figures already in hand, and if anything, do not do justice to the cattle-raising industry in this section."

The prohibition laws of North Carolina, while forbidding the whiskey distillery, allow the bottling of the wine press, and the Charlotte Observer has discovered that it is almost as important industrial institution as the cotton press. The difference is that its operations are confined to a limited area. One winery alone in Wilmington consumed last year half a million bushels of scuppernon grapes, and a fifth as many blackberries, and that is only one of numerous similar establishments in the State.

To Mebane, one of the most prosperous and bustling towns of the State, the year 1912 will leave a record of marked development in commercial, industrial and farm lines of endeavor. Better still, Mebane looks forward to an even greater expansion of its varied industries during the year 1913, addition of two manufacturing plants to the already long list being assured.

The new Union Depot in Wilmington is to be a ten-story building, affording ample office room for all of the departments of the railways centering there.

Winston-Salem is another town that is to have a new post-office building this year.

Lexington capitalists are to erect and equip a new cotton factory this year, work upon which is to begin in early spring.

A Winston-Salem paper figures out that nearly four buildings per day for every working day in the year was the record made by the hyperactive town in 1912.

By rolling up a grand total of $146,615.98, the Charlotte post-office in 1912 forged ahead of all its previous records by the most margin of $12,319.78. The figures for 1911 were $134,296.20.

The year just gone was a good one for Salisbury. In fact, it was the best in the city's history. Hundreds of private residences have been erected, business houses built and a handsome courthouse begun.

The location of the proposed new road, the Virginia and Eastern Carolina, from Henderson to either Wilson or Rocky Mount will be finished within the next sixty days. The route will be by Salisbury, and Spring Lake, Castalia and Nashville. Bids for the construction of the road will be received in sixty days.

The fisheries convention recently held at Washington, N. C., under the auspices of the North Carolina Fisheries Association, recommended to the Assembly of 1913 the passage of an act to establish a commission for the protection of fisheries in the State. The counties represented at the convention were Beaufort, Brunswick, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Hyde, Orange, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans and Pitt.

The Dacotah Mills, Lexington, N. C., will build an addition and install new warping and spinning frames and equip for an additional mill of 20,000 spindles and 500 looms, to cost $350,000.

THEY ARRANGED TO "SWAP WIVES"

Agreement, Never Consummated, Terminates in Murder and Suicide.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Bell Port, Long Island, N. Y., January 4.—With the self-satisfied men of one town, an interesting but not at all extraordinary story, pretty Mrs. Nellie Murdock sat before the corner and a score or more of her village acquaintances, Gardner Murdock, and Henry C. Eddy and arranged to "swap wives." An agreement that was never consummated, but which terminated tragically Thursday when Eddy shot and killed his wife and committed suicide.

The husband was in the little village corner's office, and was an occasion for a gathering of the country folk for miles around. They expected something of the kind, a winter's supply of gossip, and they got it.

Mrs. Murdock has no hesitation in describing her part in the unique transaction. "I was arranged to marry my husband and Mr. Eddy should go to Texas," she said, "and both get divorces on the grounds of desertion. Then they were to marry and Mr. Eddy was to marry me. But Mr. Eddy snuffed it all by getting his wife to come back home. He gave to me the new plan, and I thought it only right that Mr. Eddy should pay for breaking up our home. He said that he would bring suit for $100,000 two weeks ago for alienation of my affections."

"Do you mean to say you knew about this suit and was reconciled to it?" asked Coroner Moore with astonishment. "Why, certainly! I was visiting my husband and he told me the time. He and I were on good terms, of course, and I thought my husband deserved to be paid for the alienation of my affections. How was the money he got to benefit you?"

"No, that was all arranged. The lawyers were to get one-third and the rest was to be divided between myself and my husband."

Mrs. Murdock indignantly denied that her relations with Eddy were ever more than merely friendly, but she had "her doubts" about the status between Murdock and Mr. Eddy. She said she knew nothing about the shooting, and did not believe it was Murdock's suit that brought Eddy to the point of committing murder and suicide.

ANNUAL MEETING IN MARSHALL HOUSE

A. P. V. A. Has Annual Meeting in Virginia Jurist's Home for First Time.

OLD PLACE NOW RESTORED

Mrs. Ellyson, in Annual Address, Reviews Work of Society for 1912.

The annual meeting of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities was held yesterday afternoon for the first time in the old John Marshall house, at Ninth and Marshall Streets, the restoration of which has been undertaken and almost completed by the society's direction during the past year.

The features of the meeting, aside from the historic interest of the room in which it was held, were to be found in the re-election of practically the entire corps of officers, headed by Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson as president, and the presentation of the president's address, together with the annual reports from the secretary, the treasurer and the standing committees.

Mrs. Walter Christian, chairman of the John Marshall house committee, read a resume of the work which had been done under her direction. The house, she explained, had been completely renovated and a furnace put in. The great need now, as was pointed out, is furnishing the various rooms. It was thought best to inaugurate the new year in the society's own quarters, even though the walls might be bare. The association has been meeting in the home of the Virginia Historical Society, on Franklin Street.

Miss Sally Archer Anderson presented her report as secretary and also read the report sent in by Mrs. J. Ender Robinson, corresponding secretary, who was prevented from attending the meeting by illness. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. W. C. Bentley, showed a substantial sum on hand, the amount being more than $500. The year had been one of exceptionally heavy expenditures on account of the work undertaken. The report of the Jamestown committee showed considerable progress in maintaining and beautifying the spot on which the first settlers in America landed.

Mrs. Ellyson's presidential address, which was the first matter on the program, after the reading of the minutes, was especially notable for its expression of antagonism to the government. A speaker later in the evening complimented the association on its stand for the rights of Virginians in the matter. A movement has been started in Congress to have the island owned by the government for a national park. The association is in a position to acquire the tract, and it is session of a part of the officers is maintained will not part with it.

A nominating committee, composed of William G. Standard, Mrs. George L. Christian and Miss Ruthford, brought in a list of officers adopted by the association. A motion picture, depicting a scene of the officers' meeting, was shown. The officers' meeting was held in the evening, and a number of those in attendance had been forced to leave to keep appointments. Among them was Mrs. Ellyson, who called Mrs. Sallie Nelson Robins to the chair.

The following list of officers was chosen: Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, president; Mrs. E. V. Valentine, Mrs. William R. Cox, Mrs. M. R. Ball and Mrs. Joseph Willard, vice-presidents; Miss Sallie Archer Anderson, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Ender Robinson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. C. Bentley, historian; and Mrs. W. J. Stanley, librarian.

The directory board will be composed of Mrs. St. George Bryan, Mrs. J. Caslake Cabell, Mrs. J. Alston Cabell, Mrs. H. Randolph Cannon, Mrs. Hunsdon Cary, Mrs. Walter Christian, Miss Matie P. Harris, Mrs. E. M. Hoge, Mrs. Egbert Leigh, Mrs. F. B. Lightfoot, Mrs. William Hodges Mann, Mrs. Sallie Nelson Robins, Mrs. N. R. Savage, Mrs. Henry Taylor, Jr., Mrs. Christopher Tompkins, Mrs. G. G. Valentine, Mrs. Samuel H. Yonge, Miss Frances R. Scott, Mrs. John H. Southall, Mrs. E. E. Moffitt, Mrs. S. W. Williams, Mrs. Lyons Pemberton, Mrs. J. Montague, Mrs. W. S. McCall, Mrs. Preston W. Newman, Mrs. P. Wilbur, Mrs. C. A. Blanton, Mrs. Jeffrey Montague, Mrs. John P. McGuire, Jr.

The advisory board will be composed of practically the same members with the special addition of Bishop D. J. O'Connell. The members are: E. V. Valentine, chairman; Bishop A. M. Randolph, Bishop H. A. Gibson, Bishop D. J. O'Connell, Colonel Archer Anderson, E. A. Black, George Bryan, John Stewart Bryan, J. Alston Cabell, Rev. William Clark, J. Taylor Ellyson, Henry Hutzler, R. A. Lancaster, J. Wyndham Meredith, Dr. T. Cary Johnson, Henry C. Stuart, W. G. Standard, Harry St. George Tucker, R. S. Thomas, H. S. Yonge, Murray McGuire, Hunsdon Cary, Egbert Hunsdon, Jr.

President's Address.

Mrs. Ellyson spoke as follows:

This meeting will be an epoch-making one.

Praise This Remedy For Lung Trouble

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people, living in all parts of the country, praising Eckman's Alternative, a remedy for the treatment of coughs, colds, chest and lung troubles, are to be believed, this medicine is certainly doing a vast amount of good for such sufferers. We state none but facts and give to you the names and words of people who declare it benefited them in many cases coupled with the writers' statements that they cured them by its use. This is a sample taken from many.

"St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska. 'Gentlemen: About seven years ago, I was attacked with the dreaded disease, Tuberculosis. I coughed incessantly, could not sleep nor eat, even could not speak out loud and could not work. I had three hemorrhages, raised blood most of the time and suffered with night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbus, Ohio, pronounced my case hopeless.'

"Nearly five years ago I heard of your Alternative and procured some at once, with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. For the past four years I have been able to continue my teaching, and though I have always had heavy school work, I am also able to perform much manual labor. I consider your medicine, if faithfully taken, a most excellent remedy for consumption. Mother Superior permits this testimonial."

(Signed) SISTER MARIE, Rector of St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska. Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisonous opiate or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Owens & Miner Drug Co. and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.—Advertisement.

ing event in the history of our association, for we hold for the first time an annual meeting within the walls of a building once the home of Chief Justice Marshall.

Our greatest work during the year has been the restoration and refurbishing of this building. This most important duty was assigned to the committee, of which Mrs. Walter Christian was the efficient chairman, and the successful result of the labors of this committee is a matter of congratulation to them, and of much pleasure to the association.

We have been much encouraged and gratified by the prompt and generous responses made by many of the descendants and admirers of Judge Marshall, to whom appeals were made for the gift or loan of articles of interest associated with him as a soldier, statesman and judge. We have secured portraits of him and members of his family, painted by prominent artists of his day, books which he was accustomed to use in his hours of recreation or study will be found in the library, and his official robe of office is a gift of great value and interest. Many other heirlooms will find their way in a collection, which we hope to make the most complete and attractive of any ever assembled in honor of John Marshall.

The formal opening of this historic home will take place as soon as arrangements can be made for such an interesting event. We should always gratefully remember our indebtedness to the patriotic members of the City Council of the City of Richmond, who unanimously passed an ordinance approved by his honor, Mayor D. C. Richardson, July 26, 1911, which provided for the dedication of the John Marshall House to the memory of Chief Justice Marshall, and for the transfer of the property to the perpetual custody of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. We cannot too often or too cordially emphasize our very high appreciation of this action on the part of the City Council.

The formal organization of this association took place in the Executive Mansion, and it has been our privilege for many years to hold our meetings in the building occupied and owned by the home of Robert E. Lee, whose fame, like that of Marshall, was world-wide, and who was declared by a distinguished English officer to have been "one of the greatest, if not the greatest, general to have spoken the English language." It would be strange, while transacting our business within walls of a building, once the home of our greatest general, we had not drawn some inspiration for our work. I know that I voice the sentiments of our entire membership when I say that we shall always cherish the memory of our old meeting place, and be ever grateful for the courteous and kind reception accorded us for so long a time by the Virginia Historical Society.

Annual Tea.

On January 20 the annual tea of the association was held in the Marshall house, when more than 5,000 members and their guests were entertained with old Virginia hospitality. The officers and members of the central committee received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Mann, the wife of the Governor of Virginia, and by members of the Marshall family. The empty house had been temporarily furnished for this happy occasion by the courtesy of our merchants and the loan of antique silver from the homes of our city.

The gathering was most brilliant, flowers in profusion throughout the hall and drawing rooms lending their color to the charming scene. Open fires, candles, and cheerful faces, and delightful refreshments were served. The chairman of the committee in charge of the tea was Miss Frances Scott, assisted by Mrs. Egbert G. Leigh, Mrs. E. P. Valentine, Miss Bettie Ellyson and Mrs. C. K. Bolling.

The house was again opened in December, when the Conference of Governors was held in this city. Many of the most distinguished guests visited the building and expressed themselves in terms of highest praise of the work we have done for the preservation of this home, so rich in historic memories. One of the principal homes of King Powhatan, if not his chief abode, was in Gloucester County, and all that now remains to mark the spot where he formerly lived is a crumbling chimney; with which the life of this association has an interesting connection, for it happened that the recognition of the importance of preserving this chimney led to the suggestion of the organization for the preservation of that and other like precious relics of our early Virginia life, which finally culminated in the formation of the organization of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

All that now remains of Powhatan's chimney has during the year been presented to the association by Rev. W. H. Graves, whose valuable gift has been duly acknowledged, and the committee of the Gloucester branch has been appointed to secure the site and arrange for the early restoration of the chimney. Early in the year the branch associations, impressed by the value of the gift and seeing the necessity for funds to be used for the restoration, furnishing and maintaining of the Marshall house, gave assurance of their determination to do their part in the work. The Washington branch was the first to respond with a generous check.

The Nashville, Tenn. branch and the Philadelphia branch have already set in motion plans to raise money for this object. The Norfolk branch has secured an appropriation of $200 from the Portsmouth and Norfolk branch, $100 of which has been paid.

Reports of other branches will give detailed statements of the work during the year and of their plans for the future. Events followed each other in quick succession after our annual meeting. On March 5 the president was authorized to sign the paper necessary for the acquiring of the old Stone House; this was made possible through the generosity of G. G. Valentine, who advanced the purchase price until the association would devise some plan to reimburse him. The house is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, in the city. Many distinguished personages were guests there in the early years of our city's life.

Edit a Paper.

The association, jointly with the Associated Charities, went into the publishing business for a day, when they issued the Kirmess Bulletin on April 2. The paper was a great success, it was splendidly edited and filled with facts of historical interest. It was distinctly a woman's paper, in that its pages were mostly devoted to a history of the patriotic, social and charitable organizations fostered and directed and financed by the women of the interests of the Kirmess, which dated itself into public favor April 13, 16 and 17, giving three night entertainments and a matinee. The success of the Kirmess was assured from the first. The proceeds after paying all expenses, amounted to $6,515.72, which was equally divided between the two organizations, each receiving $2,257.86.

The next event of local interest was the unveiling of a bronze tablet on the old Westham ordnance foundry, May 5, on the country estate of George Cole Scott, near Westhampton. Master George Cole Scott and his little sister, Mildred, released the cord which unveiled the tablet.

Dr. Lyon G. Tyler delivered the chief address, while Colonel Catesby Jones made an historical statement of the building, showing that both in the Revolutionary and the War Between the States cannon and small arms were manufactured there for the equipment of the armies. The spot on which it stands is picturesquely situated below a high bluff, with the James River flowing near its base. After the exercises the guests were entertained with delicious refreshments by Mr. and Mrs. Scott and Miss Francis Scott in a shady grove near their residence.

The annual pilgrimage to Jamestown was made May 18, with Mrs. G. G. Valentine as chairman. Despite the great flood, which at one time it was thought would prevent the steamer Pocahontas from making the trip, it was most enjoyable. This is one of the happy events which is annually looked forward to, when only an announcement of the date of sailing is necessary to insure a crowd of joyous young folks, and as many others who enjoy the beauties of the historic river and feel the exciting emotions that fill the breast at the approach to Jamestown. First, the long white sea wall appears, and the tall, imposing monument erected by the government in 1907, the green and sloping grounds, the fort and the magnificent bronze statue of John Smith then greet the eye, while between the trees and shrubs gleams the old church tower, the ancient graveyard and the Memorial Church. The roses are in bloom on both sides of the road and shady hill-sides are most alluring. In the Yeardley House, made attractive with Colonial furnishings and fragrant with old-fashioned flowers, members of the Colonial Capital Branch give a cordial welcome to all. It is a special dear to all, a most sacred shrine, where the foundation of our country was laid. One has only to look around this peaceful spot to appreciate the devoted care of the Jamestown Committee under its chairman, Mrs. John B. Lightfoot, in the work of preservation and restoration.

Souvenir House.

The association is pledged to erect a new souvenir house and post-office combined, at Jamestown, in a more convenient location than the old one, which is proving inadequate for the business of the office. Plans will be submitted by the Jamestown committee so that the work can be begun early in the year.

A bronze tablet has been cast and is in readiness to be erected, to commemorate the gift on May 13, 1883, of twenty-two and one-half acres of land at Jamestown Island to the association by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barney.

In a newspaper article published a few days ago in Washington it is reported that another effort will be made to induce Congress to buy Jamestown Island for a national park. The association as long ago as October, 1903, adopted a series of resolutions declaring that it "has no intention of conveying any of its rights and privileges to any individual or organization whatever," and "it is determined to continue its work for the care and preservation of what it regards as a sacred trust for posterity." And, again, about twelve months ago this opinion was reaffirmed. To allay all uneasiness on the part of any of our members, I would remind them that our part of the island on which the first settlers landed, could not be included in any proposed sale.

The Norfolk branch in contemplating the placing of a tablet on the Thoroughgood house, in Princess Anne County, one of the oldest houses in Virginia, a small sum was given to assist in restoring and preserving old Donation Church at Lynnhaven Parish, Princess Anne County, built of imported brick in the early history of the State. Our attention has been called to an abandoned colonial church in King William County, with the request that we arrest its decay and destruction, before it is too late. A committee has been appointed to ascertain all of the facts relating to it and report at our next meeting. Another future week will be the naming of the site of the first iron foundry in America, which was established in 1819 by the London Company at Falling Creek, in Chesterfield County, about seven miles below Richmond, and which, like our university at Henricopolis, suffered destruction and its owners and workmen were put to death during the Indian massacre of 1622. There is much yet to do. Let us do it with our might.

Not one of us, old or young, is living in the past; our sympathies are with the poor and suffering, our time and means are given in every good work, but I would instill into the minds of the present generation a love of the past and desire to work for the preservation of the objects of the association. For Father Ryan has truly said: "A land without ruins is a land without memories—a land without history."

We regret to have to record the death of several valued members, among them Mr. William L. Sheppard, a member of the advisory board, whose gifted pen and brush was ever at the service of the association.

For all of your co-operation, kindness and consideration, I thank you, and I sincerely wish you one and all a prosperous and happy new year.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. J. TAYLOR ELLYSON,

President.
